

Jim Napolitano
Professor of Physics
Temple University

3 May 2024

BS,MS Physics 1977 Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute
PhD Physics 1982 Stanford University

Postdoc Physics Division Argonne National Laboratory 1982-1983
Staff Scientist Physics Division Argonne National Laboratory 1983-1988
Staff Scientist CEBAF (now Jefferson Lab) 1988-1992
Assistant Professor of Physics Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute 1992-1996
Associate Professor of Physics Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute 1996-1999
Professor of Physics, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute 1999-2013
Professor of Physics, Temple University 2014-present

Vice Provost Information Technology Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute 1999-2001
Physics Department Chair Temple University 2015-2021

Research in Experimental Nuclear Physics, funded by the Office of Nuclear Physics,
Office of Science, US Department of Energy

Publication record (from INSPIRE) 425 citable and 344 published with $h=92$

Physics courses developed and taught at all levels relevant to university students at Rensselaer Polytechnic and Temple University.

Authored or co-authored five physics textbooks including Modern Quantum Mechanics
(with JJ Sakurai) and Experiments in Modern Physics (with A Melissinos).

APS Fellow elected through the Division of Nuclear Physics

Chair-Elect APS Division of Nuclear Physics

Member APS Committee on Education