

Also shown as abscissas are an energy scale (arrows) and a wavelength scale (vertical lines). The visible region of the frequency spectrum is indicated by the vertical dashed lines. The absorption coefficient for seawater is denoted by the dashed diagonal line at the left. The scales are logarithmic in both directions.